Luc Sels, Rector

Our goal is to make decisions for the long term: ten to fifteen years.
This approach is necessary: if each management team only thinks about the next four years, we can never properly start the debate about the long-term development of our university.

Objective 10: Innovative Digital Learning Projects

SEED: INNOVATIVE DIGITAL LEARNING

The seed projects on Innovative Digital Learning (IDL) aim to stimulate and facilitate educational innovation within KU Leuven.

The seed projects include educational innovation projects and microprojects:

Educational innovation projects

These projects aim to thoroughly test a new approach on a defined student group.

Here, you can find more information on the 2019 projects, which focus on feedback and continuous assessment

The next project call for educational innovation projects will be launched in the spring of 2020.

Microprojects

KU Leuven Learning Lab provides microfinancing to teaching teams and POCs with a focus on blended learning and course design. This microfinancing consists of sums between 3,000 and 10,000 Euros for developing online components or digital learning materials for a course/group of courses/learning sequence/study programme.

SCALE-UP

Both innovation initiatives that started spontaneously and on a small scale, and innovation projects that receive support in the form of extra funding can form an interesting base for a broader initiative.

Both one project or a group of projects can form the base for a broader implementation, for instance:

- > In one or more faculties
- > In a specific setting (courses for large groups, courses with a lot of students transferring from a different study programme,...)
- > For a specific target audience (students with accommodations, exchange students,...).

Are you, as a member of the teaching staff, teaching team or educational developer, part of an initiative like this? Please contact us for more information on the application procedure, modalities and goals.

ONLINE LEARNING

Continuing your studies online has its pros and cons. You're free to plan your study time how you like, but beware of procrastination. It's important to keep challenging yourself to stay focussed and motivated. Below you can find some tips for optimal online learning in times of corona.

Planning

Digital or online learning is not always easier, nor always more difficult. It's just different. Like with live lectures, it's essential to make time for online classes, to prepare well, and to keep up with what you've learned. A good planning goes a long way, as it adds structure to your days and gives you peace of mind.

Online examination

maximally on campus (in examination centers/PC-rooms)

only specific exam formats fully online (= 14% of all exams)
cf. fraude-resistance

always an oral component/check online examination portal Xtoledo for assignments & tests

Skype for Business or Blackboard Collaborate for oral exams (open book)

3.2. Edtech & Back to the “new normal”

Overarching principle:

from rotation in teaching

reduced audience in the lecture hall

+ (no or limited) interaction with remote learners (poll, audio, video)

to blended & integrated learning

Extra focus on

Objective 3: online assessment

- examination centers (with BYOD?)
- computer-assisted testing (with itembanks)
- fraude-resistant online exams

Objective 4: MOOCs for credit

Objective 6: Learning analytics

- integrated technological solutions for future & enrolled students
- from descriptive to predictive analytics

Objective 9: first line support (including a train-the-trainer program)
